

Designing for Services - Multidisciplinary Perspectives:
Proceedings from the Exploratory Project on Designing for Services in Science and Technology-based Enterprises,
Saïd Business School

Edited by Lucy Kimbell and Victor P. Seidel

University of Oxford 2008

Credits

D4S project - Saïd Business School

Principal investigator	Lucy Kimbell
Co-investigators	Fiona Reid and Victor Seidel
Research manager	Nils Nordal
Admin support	Hazel Fry
Research accounts	Monica O'Kane
Research assistants	Wing Li, Susan Murray, Christian Toennesen, Shan Zao
Liaison with enterprises	Oxford Science Enterprise Centre

Publication

Editors	Lucy Kimbell and Victor Seidel
Publication editor	Stephanie Kitchen
Visual design	Jim Noble
Copy editor	Eileen Daly

Web archive

Managing editor	Lucy Kimbell
Visual design	Jim Noble
Information design	Lucy Kimbell and Christian Toennesen
Production editor	Christian Toennesen
Web development	James Davies, Saïd Business School
Hosting	University of Oxford

Films

Executive producer	Saïd Business School
Producer	Oxford Academy of Documentary Film (OADF)
Director	Lucy Kimbell
Editing Advisor	Alison Kahn (OADF)
Editor	Maarten Roos (OADF)
Cameras	Michael Yorke (OADF), Ian Davidson (OADF), Andy Jillings (OADF), Flora Skivington
Art direction	Jim Noble

Event and research support

Facilitation	Angela Wilkinson (December 2007 event)
Scribing	Sefi Amir (Design Heroine), Joel Cooper (Design Heroine), Josh Knowles
Administration	Hazel Fry
Catering	Saïd Business School/Holroyd Howe
AV support	Fred Davis and Adrian Axe, Saïd Business School
D4S logo	Clare Meredith
Probes packs	Michele Gauler

Acknowledgements

Thanks to all the project participants for their openness and tolerance of ambiguity throughout the year.

Special thanks also to: Hazel Fry, Tom Inns, Alison Kahn, Stephanie Kitchen, Ben Mumby-Croft, Steve New, Jim Noble, Nils Nordal, Monica O'Kane, James Tansey, Marc Ventresca and Nina Wakeford.

Designing for Services is supported by the Arts and Humanities Research Council (AHRC). The AHRC funds research in the arts and humanities, from archaeology and English literature to design and dance. AHRC Research Centres provide a focus for collaborative research in areas of strategic importance. For further information on the AHRC, please see www.ahrc.ac.uk

Arts & Humanities
Research Council

Engineering and Physical Sciences
Research Council

oxford
SAID BUSINESS SCHOOL

Designing for the 21st Century