

Designing for Services - Multidisciplinary Perspectives:
Proceedings from the Exploratory Project on Designing for Services in Science and Technology-based Enterprises,
Saïd Business School

Edited by Lucy Kimbell and Victor P. Seidel

University of Oxford 2008

Participants list

Academics and researchers

Professor Antti Ainamo, University of Turku, Finland
Dr Andrew Barry, Oxford University Centre for the Environment
Dr Kate Blackmon, Saïd Business School
Dr Bill Hollins, Westminster Business School
Dr Stefan Holmlid, Linköpings Universitet, Sweden
Professor Thomas Inns, University of Dundee
Dr Marina Jirotko, Oxford University Computing Lab
Professor Jeff Johnson, Open University
Tobie Kerridge, Goldsmiths College, University of London
Lucy Kimbell, Saïd Business School
Dr Steve New, Saïd Business School
Dr Dan Neyland, Saïd Business School
Fiona Raby, Royal College of Art
Professor Rafael Ramirez, HEC School of Management,
Paris and James Martin Institute, University of Oxford
Fiona Reid, Director, Oxford Science Enterprise Centre,
Saïd Business School
Professor Mari Sako, Saïd Business School
Lauren Tan, Northumbria University
Dr Victor P. Seidel, Saïd Business School
Dr Daniela Sangiorgi, Lancaster Institute for the Contemporary Arts, Lancaster University
Dr Jim Spohrer, IBM Almaden Research Centre
Dr James Tansey, University of British Columbia
Professor Bruce Tether, Tanaka Business School,
Imperial College, and the Royal College of Art
Dr Marc Ventresca, Saïd Business School
Professor Chris Voss, London Business School
Dr Nina Wakeford, Goldsmiths College, University of London
Brendan Walker, Royal College of Art
Dr Andrew Warr, Oxford eResearch Centre
Dr Jennifer Whyte, University of Reading
Professor Robert Young, Northumbria University
Theodore Zamenopoulos, University College London
Dr Leonieke Zomerdiijk, London Business School

Enterprise participants

Mark Allman, Operations Manager, g-Nostics
Andy Bush, COO, Prosonix
James Clough, Commercial Director, Oxford Gene Technology
Mike Evans, CEO, Oxford Gene Technology
Marcus Harrison, Head of Computational Biology,
Oxford Gene Technology
David Hipkiss, CEO, Prosonix
Christian Jones, business development, Prosonix
Pablo Toledo, business development, g-Nostics
Mark Tucker, CEO, g-Nostics
Kos Vankov, CEO, Oxford Arch Digital

Designers

Toke Barter, Radarstation
Amy Branton, Orange
Chris Downs, live | work
Ré Dubhthaigh, Radarstation
David Griffiths
Joe Heapy, Engine
Neil Martin, IDEO
Manlio Minale, Wolff Olins
Ije Nwokorie, Wolff Olins
Will Peachey, IBM (until 2007)
Ben Reason, live | work
Fran Samalionis, IDEO
Paul Sims, live | work
Steven Street, IBM
Anna White, IDEO
Gill Wildman, Plot

Designing for Services is supported by the Arts and Humanities Research Council (AHRC). The AHRC funds research in the arts and humanities, from archaeology and English literature to design and dance. AHRC Research Centres provide a focus for collaborative research in areas of strategic importance. For further information on the AHRC, please see www.ahrc.ac.uk

Arts & Humanities
Research Council

Engineering and Physical Sciences
Research Council

oxford
SAID BUSINESS SCHOOL

Designing for the 21st Century